

We are here for a simple reason, we live and breathe art. What better way to live the dream than to sell the best art supplies in the world. We've been called underachievers by our parents, but we answer to another label, "artist". Some of us here at Rhino are highly trained, while others of us are hardly trained. Big fancy companies have a "Mission Statement", but we are motivated by passion. What sets us apart from the other folks in this business is the fact that we all use this stuff ourselves. We draw and paint and sculpt. We get this stuff in our hair and up our nose. We wouldn't want it any other way. It's pretty simple with us; it's just about the art.
